Germany Will Shorten Age of Battleships.

TWENTY INSTEAD OF 25 YEARS

Prices in Kaiser's Empire Rise-Last Winter Meat Was High-This Year Wheat Will Soar to High Point, Causing Rise in Bread.

BERLIN, Oct. 9 .- According to the Frankfurter Zeitung the first demand in connection with the naval program which will be laid before the Reichtag of Baden, at Friburg, Heidelberg and this fall will be a proposal for reducing the age limit for battleships from 25 to 20 years.

"This measure," it is added, "will, of course, increase the rate of construction of a few ships." For the rest, the navy law will not be altered, if only because Admiral von Tirpitz, the secretary of state for the imperial marine is pledged to the principle that one battleship and two cruisers ought to be laid down every year. The navy estimates will have to be materially increased in order to cover additional expenditures for guns and torpedoes, and, above all, in consequence of the increased displacement of the new large ships of the navy. Naval works and fortifications at the mouth of the Elbe and along the cost of the North Sea will also have to be provided for. But the financial difficulties of the empire admittedly hamper the realization of these schemes. According to official returns, published by the Imperial Gazette, ordinary recurring expenditure for the navy during the financial year 1908 exceeded the estimates by nearly $3,700,000, and nonrecruiting expenditures showed a similar excess of $110,000. If last winter in Germany was one of dear meat there is only too much reason to fear that the coming season will prove one of dear bread. The prices of wheat in the open market have September, and 22 per cent as compared with April. Similarly, rye, which is well known, is the staple bread-flour among the middle and poorer classes, has risen 30 per cent as compared with the prices ruling 12 months ago and 20 per cent as compared with April. The corn yield by last year's harvest was exported from Germany in large quantities and supplies from that source are now extremely short. This export was followed by a very severe winter and a late har vest, and the wretched weather of this summer and early autumn has further spoiled the crops. The outlook is, in deed, unpromising. Finally, there exists great fear that the potato crop will be

Emperor William's complaint in hi speech at Munster that during the course of his reign many people had wittingly and unwittingly caused him bitter pain has created a feeling of uneasiness in various quarters. When a personage in his majesty's exalted position publicly laments the fact that he has been misunderstood, those who have followed his lead are apt to wonder where they are. It is even suggested that as the emperor went thus far, he might have become more explicit. That his majesty should ardently desire the confidence of his people is held to be in the highest degree natural, but it is pointed out that acts not motives, determine public sentiment and popular judgments. It is an inseparable accident of the form of constitutional government which prevails in Germany that personal misunderstandings and misunderstandings should play a part in affairs of state. It is recalled to the emperor's credit that his majesty has not attempted to solve the social question "by the sword," but, on the other hand, he has so closely identified himself with the policy of the government against, for example, the social democracy, that some misunderstanding as to the imperial motives in the first instance was bound to arise. The Frankfurter Zeitung boldly inquires: "Has the emperor himself not often given occasion for active criticisms?" In his public utterances he has placed the military upon a plane higher than that of the civilian element, he has bidden the discontented spirits shake the dust of Germany from off their feet, he has depreciated serious works of art, he has spoken lightly of the Reichstag, and has branded the social democracy as a band of traitors and ing to him, they disown. Journalists his majesty described as "the failures of further particulars apply to, public schools." The Frankfurt journal, with the william

WARSHIPS which enumerates these utterances calming by and dispassionately, ventures the opinion that if the emperor had not been Their Unceasing Work Keeps us Strong born in the purple he might have become a journalist, "and in time assuredly quite a good journalist."

> Today, however, the Journal adds, the emperor would bethink himself before passing hasty judgments of this kind even if his majesty's opinions were unchanged. As men grow older they become less and less inclined to engage in recriminations, and the Emperor William has not remained young.

> The propaganda for the admission of women to the German universities makes rapid progress. The efforts of lady students themselves threaten to take by, assault the last citadels, the gates of which are closed against them -these are the 12 universities of Everywhere else girl students are admitted to follow the course-in the Bavarian universities, at Munich, Erlangen and Wurtzburg, in those of the Duchy Tubingen and even Thuringe, at Jena and in Saxe at Leipsic. One hundred and sixty professors of the Prussian universities demand their free admission. The German girl students are divided almost equally into students of medicine and students of philosophy, philology and history.

Europe during the last few weeks has been an armed camp. The autumn maneuvers of the great powers are now finishing and probably between 300,000 and 4000 men have been under arms. The following particulars of the forces in the field will give a general idea of the enormous scale on which the training of the continental armies is based. Germany-Tw army corps, 100,000 men; cavalry, fouh divisions; pioneer maneuvers and siege operations.

France-Two army corps, 60,000 men; cavalry, two schemes.

Austria-Hungary-Two army corps. 70,000 men; territorial district maneu-Italy-Three army corps, 70,000 men.

Switzerland-National defense maneu-Great Britain-Command maneuvers three schemes; 40,000 men. According to a report current here. Herr Scherl, the proprietor of the Lokalanzeiger, proposes to establish a vast system of lending libraries to extend throughout Germany.

T. S. CORNELIUS, Assessor for Clatsop County, Oregon. WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO.

and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with you kidneys.

Mrs. E. Nettleblade, 133 Astor street, Astoria, Oregon, says: "For a long time I felt weak, tired and depressed, suffering severely from kidney complaint and would rise in the morning feeling so lame and stiff that it was only with great effort that I was able to perform my household duties. There was an awful bearing down feeling through my hips and loins and many times I suffered so intensely that I was forced to lie down in the midst of my work. The secretions from my kidneys were unnatural in appearance, frequently causing me much annoyance. I finally learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and deciding to give them a trial, procured a box at Chas. Rogers' drug store. The results that followed their use were very satisfactory. I feel that I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills with great confidence to other sufferers." For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name - Doan's - and take no other.

If taken patiently and persistently will relieve the most obstinate cases of indigestion, constipation, bad blood, bad liver no matter how long standing. That's what Hollister's Rocky Mountain Ten will do. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Frank Hart.
